

The Evolutionary Approach for Continuous Improvement of What We Do

In this webinar we will show several examples of how the various Evolutionary Delivery techniques helped space-, railway-, electronic instrument-, and parking system projects to deliver better results in less time.

These projects were run by very knowledgeable engineers, but in each case, there were specific elements that could be improved for significantly better results.

- An overview of Evolutionary techniques
- See that each project can improve something
- Think which technique could benefit your own project now
